And we are also thrilled to announce that Dr. Stefanie Rauch, from Germany, will be one of our guest performers and workshop leaders!

For over 15 years, Dr. Stefanie Rauch, has been performing as a soloist and with several ensembles around the world. She studied the mandolin under the instruction of Keith David Harris. Stefanie is a member of the world music ensemble Vinorosso, and the music director of the federation of plucked-string music of the German state of Hesse (BDZ Hessen e.V.). She is a regular guest at various international courses, teaching the mandolin and the mandola as well as music history.

Apart from being a classical mandolinist, Dr. Stefanie Rauch is a musicologist at the Musicological Seminar of the Universität Paderborn and the Hochschule für Musik Detmold, Germany. Between 2007 and 2011, Stefanie also held teaching positions at the Hochschule für Musik und Tanz Cologne/Wuppertal Universität Marburg and the Hochschule für Musik Würzburg.

This Convention is for Everyone...

CMSA Conventions feature today's top international mandolinists and guitar players presenting superb concerts and daily workshops covering diverse topics related to the mandolin, the mandolin family of instruments, and guitar. In addition to the classical style, performers are representative of diverse musical styles - for example, jazz and choro - helping to broaden the attendee's musical experience. Activities are included for all levels of players. In our next update, we'll tell you about two more guest artists who will be rounding out our list of performers and workshop leaders.
